Himali Kothari started writing five years ago because she wanted to be able to express her opinions without any interruptions. In the five years (and still counting) of her non-stop monologue she has written on travel, business & finance, food, design, architecture and general interest topics.

The best moments in reading are when you come across something - a thought, a feeling, a way of looking at things - which you'd thought special, particular to you.

And here it is, set down by someone else, a person you've never met, maybe even someone long dead. And it's as if a hand has come out, and taken yours.
